OBREGON'S BOAST.

When Gen. Obregon left Vera Crushe told friends at headquarters that he would be in possession of Puebla in eight days. This time was not up until tonight. Other small towns and villages to the east and southeast of Puebla have been taken since his deap to the main line of the Mexican Railway. Last night he moved this force on where the railroad from Puebla joins the main line of the Mexican Railway. Last night he moved this force on the west, cutting both railroads over which the Wills and Zapata forces might proceed toward Mexico City.

Gens. Alvaredo and Mallen were in charge of the forces moving from the east and had under their direction most of the cannon. That numerous cannon of high grade and an abundance of ammunition were in Obregon's possession was known here. But that he intended to employ so many pieces in one action came as a surprise. The topography about Puebla avails itself easily to a force which can utilize the heights above the city for artillery, and Obregon's chief effort was to get possession of the hills. A few guns were mounted to the west of the city, but most of the litils. A few guns were mounted to the west of the city, but most of the sent as Senators. He declared that he

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

The "Russian note" dominated the music from the seat of war last night All advices seem to agree that the Slave are having things very much their own way, for the day at least. Having defeated the Turks in one place and the Austrians in another they are described as holding the line of the Mazurian lakes against the Germans and sending an army to Cracow. In the west, the fighting has been desultory. The French are making another try for Muelhausen.

Carranza appears to have been successful in his first move toward reoccupying Mexico City, having administered a severe defeat to Gen. Angeles and capturing the city of Puebla, together with 1000 prisoners and ninety guns. Whether this defeat will have the effect of altering Villa's plans remains to be seen. Gen. Scott will confer with the latter at El Paso on the border situation today.

Senator Harris said he still considers himself a "Progressive," but would affiliate, with the Republican party.

"I also expect to continue to work in harmony with the Republicans, and shall take part in their caucuses."

Resolutions inviting Representatives McCormick and Hicks to take part in the Republican House caucuses were offered by Representative John A. Atwood, a Republican colleague of Hicks from the Rockford district.

The action of the "Progressive" members now gives the Republicans absolute control of the Legislature.

region is declared to be in full retreat in a mountain pass deep in snow, while a violent snowstorm rages and the Russian cavalry is sitacking on the flank and rear.

By forcing this pass the Russians will gain control of some of the most valuable oil fields in the Austrian empire, and thus shut off another of the sources of fuel supply which the Austro-German armies are said to be much in need of. This, however, has only been part of the Russian attack.
While forcing back the Turks and much in need of the Russian attack. While forcing back the Turks and Austrians, the Russian troops are holding the line of the Masurian lakes in East Prussia, are fighting to withstand the German officials in North Poland, are advancing toward Cracow and have crossed Bukowina, which is now virtally in their possession.

In North Poland, where Russia is confronted with the most serious task, the weather is proving a useful ally. The Germans, according to all secounts, are making only slow progress with their offensive operations, while the Russians, an unofficial dispatch received from Berlin by way of Cepenhagen says, are advancing toward Cracow and Southern Silesia.

Military men look for biggest events between the lower Vistula and the East Prussian frontier. The Russians are in possession of the greater part of the intervening territory and unless engaged when the river freezes, would fall on the German fank to the south of the river. It is believed here, therefore, that the Germans are planning a movement from Thorn and East Prussia in an effort to prevent this action, and as the fighting would take place in the open it would afford a contrast to the trench warfare which prevails along the rest of the front.

which prevails along the rest of the front.

Except at the two extreme wings on the Belgian coast and in upper Alsace, where the allies have gained some ground, the fighting on the western front has been done by sappers, miners and artillery. From the coast to the Swiss border the troops either have been engaged in shelling the opposite trenches or trying to sap and mine them. Only at isolated points

Belligerency of Republicans Worries Democrats.

Endurance Test is Planned to Tire Opponents.

Works Talks Three Hours; is Far from Through.

Inasmuch as but two months remain of the Sixty-third Congress and the Senate has not yet passed any of the big supply bills, the reiterated determination of the minority to fight the ship bill to the last ditch and to prevent its consideration whenever possible, has aroused the fears that the administration legislative programme is in danger.

Following last night's conference of Republicans in Senator Gallinger's office, from which emanated the suggestion that the appropriation bills might be endangered before many more weeks passed, informal conferences of majority leaders were held today to consider methods of procedure. It is possible that night sessions may be forced in the near future. By compelling the Republicans to be constantly on hand, the Democrats think there will be an endurance test, which would force an agreement to allow the ship measure to be, voted on.

Republican Senators today spent several hours discussing the Urgent Deficiency Sill, while Senator Works talked for three hours on the public health. The California Senator has left about 30,000 words of his prepared address, which he intends to deliver tomorrow and Thursday.

Although Democratic leaders found no opportunity during the day to get the bill before the Senate, the Com-

NNINGS'S CLAIMS TO AN ESTATE

WOLVERHAMPTON (Eng.) Dec 22.—The death is announced at the Wolverhampton workhouse of David Wolverhampton workhouse of David Jennings, famous in legal circles as the claimant to the estate in Birmingham known as "Jennings's Millions," which Dickens immortalized by using it as the basis for his "Jarndyce versus Jarndyce" in "Bleak House."

The Jennings, or Jennens, estate has been the subject of costly litigation ever since the death of its founder, William Jennens, known as "William the Rich" in 1798. He left about $8,000,000 in money and stocks, besides a large amount of farm lands which have since become the center of Birmingham. The bulk of the property passed to Lady Andover and Earl Howe, who claimed to be next of kin through marriage. Their descendants have held most of the property ever since, although the defense of their title has cost them over $1,250,000 in legal expenses.

David Jennings, who has just died, was 80 years old. The case had not been reopened since he was about 40. At that time there was a great family gathering in Birmingham, with a view to further prosecuting their claim, but disagreements arose and nothing came of it.

619 If You Could Only Be a Stomach

You'd Go to Bed Rather Sore at the Work You'd Have to Do. Fancy a master that works a horse o long, without rest, that the poor id beast at last has to go to a bone pile.

Fancy yourself doing the same thing with your stomach—the noblest of all our physical organs.

Just imagine yourself devoting hours of ceaseless work to the digestion of a meat which you cannot digest because of wrongful ingredients given to you by the blood.

Is not a man very feolish to imagine a raw sick stomach capable of good work when the juices it receives are so filled with alkali or acid that they actually eat the stomach membrane?

Do you not know from a common sense point of riew that to continue such a course means not only the impairment of your stomach but of all digestive organs as well?

Stuart's Dyspepaia Tablets go into your stomach just like food. They are so powerful in health giving qualities that almost instantly the work of digestion in improved. They case up the stomach's work. They go into the blood and balance it perfectly. Thus, when the stomach calls for new juices af your next meal you

BUT FEW ESCAPE.

How many of the Villa and Zapata troops escaped is not known, but early reports of the fighting indicate that the greater part of them either were killed or made prisoners. From these reports it would seem that in few of the battles that have occurred in Mexico has the slaughter been so swift and so great.

The hardest part of the action was fought outside the city proper. The dead and wounded are said to cover the ground at some places and to be strewn plentifully across a field whose diameter from west to east is some twelve miles. The bombardment from the ninety-two cannon was almost incessant, according to the official report.

Communication with Puebla was not established until tonight. Just who was in command of the capital forces is not yet known, but their leaders are reported to have been Andrew Almazan and Eufemio Zapata, a brother of Emiliano.

A brief message was received at mid-day announcing the result of the fighting, and the garrison in Vera Cruz with their bands paraded the streets in honor of the victory. The ringing of church bells conveyed the news to the populace.

OBREGON'S REPORT.

Gen. Obregon had not sufficient data at nightfall to estimate the losses of his opponents, but the official report said they were unusually heavy. The report also indicated that the artiliery fire of the Carranza forces did more damage within the city of Puebla proper than was at first indicated. Many of the streets and plazas are said to be almost clogged with dead and weunded, a large number of whom were victims of machine guns and rifle fire in the street fighting.

Heavy fighting is still in progress to the west of Puebla between Gen. Obsegon's forces and reinforcements sent from the capital. Three aeroplanes did good scout work during the day, according to Gen. Obregon.

It is now said that Gen. Almszan was in charge of the operations for the capital forces, supported by Gens. Cortes and Argumedo of the Federal army and Gens. Esinderas, Poffirio, Bonilla and Varous.

Gen. Obregon captured Puebla today at 11 o'clock, defeating a force under Gen. Angeles, and taking 1000 prisoners and ninety cannon.

According to the Carranza agency, Obregon's attack upon Puebla is the first step toward a general campaign upon Mexico City, which is espected to re-establish the Carranza government in the capital.

ORDERS TO MAYTORENA. ORDERS TO MATTURENA.

The Gutierrez government, in a note to the State Department transmitted today by the Brazillan Minister, announced that orders had been sent to Gen. May brens at Naco, "to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border" pending a closer study of the situation "in its military and political espects."

THE GUTIERREZ NOTE.

THE GUTIERREZ NOTE.

The note was dated January 4, and was signed by Ortiz Rodrigues, the Gutierrez Acting Secretary for Foreign Affairs. It was as follows:

"The government of Mexico, showing the best intention of solving the Naco case in a satisfactory manner, today issued orders by wire to Maytorena to make no attack and to withdraw his forces from the border. As, for the time being, the situation is so much relieved, the Foreign. Office at Mexico City will take the time necessary for the purpose of making a study of the dase in its military and political aspects, with the view of giving its final decision. This course will be followed because the Acting Secretary for Foreign. Affairs is very much occupied with the work of reorganizing the office force and in giving attention to other important affairs of an international character."

The general understanding in official circles tonight was that the clossif study referred to probably would develop in the conference to be held chief of the forces of the Gutertes government.

CONVENTION AT CAPITAL.

The latest advices from the convention at Mexico City of the Guterrez, Villa and Zapata followers was summarized tonight in the following from the State Department:

"The session of the convention yesterday was devoted to a discussion as to whether it could admit civillans at delegates in representation of military principals, and if permitted, the extent to which such representation by civilians could be allowed. The convention came to no final decision on this point.

handbag, are now sought by the police. Mrs. Lubee was walking along Twelfth street, near Santee street, when a negro snatched her handbag. The article contained a purse, a gold watch, a ring, and $14.50. She screamed and before the megro could get away, two stalwart men, who bore marks of being sons of toli, rushed up and grabbed the purse-snatcher.

The negro said he did not care for a trip to the City Jail, and offered to return Mrs. Lubee's property if she would not have him arrested. This was agreed upon and the manjumped on a passing street car. He was soon out of sight. The two "gallants" then tipped their hats, waving aside Mrs. Lubee's thanks, and also took a street car. When they were out of sight the woman looked in her handbag and found the purse, the watch and the ring, but the $14.50 was gone.

A portion of the telegram received by the Chief reads:

"The bug usually works alone, and in a manner different from the old method of applying a match and then making a getaway. In the evening of the night of the fire he distributes a fluid which is highly inflammable throughout the building on which the insurance is to be collected.

"After two or three hours this has soaked in and the rest is easy. A lighted cigar or cigarette thrown over an open transom or through the window starts the blaze. This man poses as a silk salesman and in this manner learns the financial standing of his prospective customer. The owner of the store assumes no risk, and in most cases the work is so cleverly done that the insurance is collected."

The telegram gives a detailed description of the wanted man and states that he was trailed as far south from Seattle as Santa Barbara, where he was lost. From information received at that time it was believed that he had returned to Canada, but it was later learned that he came direct to Los Angeles.

"I don't believe there is any doubt but what "The Torch' has been operating here," declared Chief Eley. "There were at least six fires in the month of December that bore all of the earnmarks of his work. They were in buildings that were heavily insured and were unquestionably of incendiary origin.

NAVY SAYS "SAFETY FIRST."

And in Doing so it Follows Rules and Regulations for Employees Originated by a Railroad.

Paying a deserved compliment to the great movement for safety inaugurated by the American railroads, the rules and observances prescribed by the safety department of the New York Central lines for the government of employees have been adopted in their entirety by the United States naval station at Charleston, S. C., according to information received here yesterday by General Agent Byron of the road's passenger department.

According to the order issued by Rear-Admiral John R. Edwards, commandant of the Charleston station, observance of the safety rules will be obligatory not only on employees of the yards, but upon all enlisted men of vessels undergoing repairs at the yards. In this way, the New York Central's safety first campaign will be carried into a service that encompasses the world and knows no clime nor bounds.

The hearing developed a long controversy between N. Banks Cregier, secretary and engineer of the Cregier Alarm Company, and City Electrician Manahan, Lewis Degen, consulting engineer for the special committee on fire alarm, and members of the Council committee.

The Council committee made it plain that it wants to fully bring out all the points in favor of either type of alarm system, and give the city the best possible results for the money invested.

A deposition of Alney A. McGee of Bishop, a stockman, asserted that an epidemic of disease among cattle broke out in Long Valley in 1864. The deponent said that he had seen cattle mired in the swamps, that many of them were not removed but that in the past teff years or so they had been burned. He said he had never experienced any ill effects from drinking the waters of Owens River on the creeks.

W. A. Calvert of Bishop testified that he had seen sick cattle in Owens Valley. A deposition by George Watterson, hardware merchant of Hishop, deposed that he had seen dead cattle in 1877 and from that time to 1892. P. W. When Walter Murray awoke yesterday morning at his home, No. 538

A "jimmied" window and footprints in the soft earth under the sill gave evidence that a night prowler had entered his home, but for some time Mr. Murray was unable to find that anything was missing. But he had a vague sense that something in the regular plan of the day was not as it should be. Then he remembered the cheery ringing he had missed; his alarm clock was gone. It was the only article the burgiar took.

Another burgiar stole a dozen cans of preserved fruits from the home of Mrs. Ida Votrie, No. $14 West Fifty-sixth street. The police believe the alarm clock thief size stole the fruit.

We are not in sympathy with the oftenexpressed theory regarding the decline of the influence of editorial thought. That is a cry that was as frequently heard when Charles A. Dana, Horace Greeley, William Cullen Bryant and others of a now glorified past were hurling their thunders through the editorial columns of their papers as it is today. With greater impersonality, but with no less of soundness of thought and vigor of expression, there are many newspapers now published whose editorial opinions enjoy by right of merit that influence that tradition has given to the editorial page.

Many subjects of contemporaneous interest demand for their fullest and most

This is particularly true of technical quesions, or questions of a semi-technical nature, and, from these, expanding into those realms of thought in which certain individuals have caused themselves to be looked upon as the highest living authorities, not, perhaps, beyond final appeal, but still of such marked and distinguished a nature that their purely personal opinions will round out and supplement the more impersonal consideration of any editorial staff.

POOR BUSINESS.

The State is about to float $5,800,000 worth of bonds for the erection of State buildings at San Francisco and Sacramento. The bonds run for fifty years and are relieved from taxation. The buildings to be rected will be non-productive.

Before these bonds are redeemed they will have cost the people of California about $16,000,000. That means the principal of $5,500,000 will be exceeded by interest paid on the principal by about $3,200,000. Upon what kind of business principles is that sort of a transaction based?

What private corporation would bind itself to pay more in interest than the principal invested in a property that produces nothing?

And isn't it likely that the growing habit

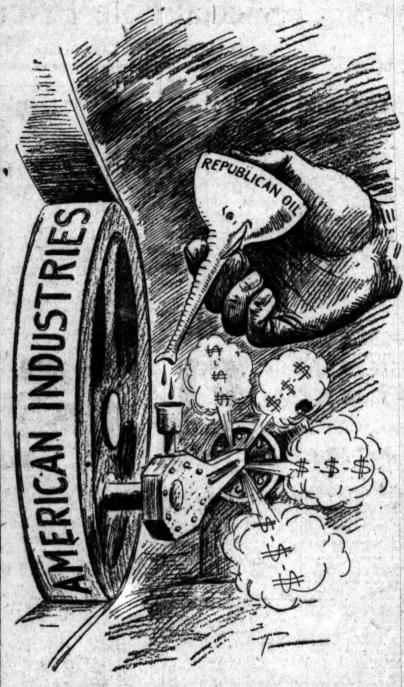

And isn't it likely that the growing habit of public borrowing will reduce the opportunity for borrowing by private capital which handles productive enterprises?

Give the people the right to vote upon a great number of questions and they cannot segregate the businesslike from the unbusinesslike—they just vote.

Not one word of protest was heard during the recent constitutional amendment campaign against the profligate manner of borrowing money—that is no word of protest came from the alleged guardians of the treasury at Sacramento. The assumption of these obligations for State buildings was taken as a matter of fact and more attention was paid to the fatuous assurances by one county to another than to the business aspects of so important a deal,

The Kind That Makes the Wheels Go Round.

'OMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE. The war in Europe and the recent dis-closures in the National Guard of Callfornia have made one fact glaringly plain; voluntary service is not a correct military principle. If nations are to rely upon force that force must be supplied by compulsory service in the army.

The two nations which have fought the greatest wars with volunteer troops are the United States and England. But during our Civil War the Federal government was obliged to abandon the principle of voluntary enlistment and put the draft in force. Lord Northeliff, the distinguished British editor, has publicly stated within the last week that England is on the verge method can troops be raised.

The shocking condition of the State militia shakes all confidence to that arm as a true "second line of defense." No efmaintained upon a system which involves electing the officers, or which depends upon building up a sort of imitation gentlemen's social club within the guard to induce enlistment. There can be no real discipline in ranks which are filled by a pathetic system of coddling and coaxing. And without discipline there can be no efficiency. The conclusion to which every same perupon volunteers rushing to the defense of the country in time of war, or upon a mil-itia drilled by volunteers in time of peace. Our military policy must be reformed and must be changed; but what direction shall this change take?

The American people would never con-sent to wholesale conscription after the sent to wholesale conscription after the manner of Germany and France. Neither can we afford to ignore the advantages of conscription. A middle ground would seem to be the proper one.

Let us retain the militia, but let us fill its ranks by compulsory measures. This would do much toward solving the military of the land. Let boys of military age be forced to serve in the militia.

Many families in all countries are un-willing that their sons should spend two or more years of their lives in the barracks, but no family could reasonably object to a boy being forced to turn out for military service one evening each week.

If all the members of each militia organi-zation were compelled to be present every week a great deal of actual instruction could be crowded into two years. Especially if the officers were regulars or worked under the supervision of regulars. One regular army officer could supervise the weekly drills of a good many different or-

"Christmas letters containing expressions of good will were today sent by the San Francisco Labor Council to the McNamara brothers, Eugene A. Clancy, Ford, Suhr and all other union men serving sentences in San Quentin and Folsom penitentiaries. Similar letters were forwarded to the trade-unionists now confined in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. The letters were sent by Secretary John A. O'Connell, acting under instructions from the San Francisco Labor Council."

Who sent Christmas cheer to the poor

Who sent Christmas cheer to the poor devil that went to the penitentiary for steal-ing bread to feed his children? The work-ingmen's organization, as the unions fallaciously designate themselves, took pains to send good cheer to those murderers whom they kept on the pay rolls for the work of assassination. But what of the worthy workingman who does not pay tithes to the mark upon it. As ever before, the unions hit him over the head with a club when

There is nothing maudlin about the "go cheer" forwarded to the union assassins in prison. No, it is purely practical. These criminals must not be forgetten—they are brothers-in-blood with those who remain at liberty. These criminals must not be neglected—they might "get sore and peach," and then a lot of deep-voiced, full-paunched, diamond-studded, grafting union officials might be also thrown into prison, where [American Review of Reviews:] Pota-toes furnish an important supplementary supply of starchy food. Because of their bulk they may not be available for the ar-mies in the field, but there is no reason why the non-fielding receipting the start of the s why the non-fighting population should not in time of war use them in increasing quantitles as substitutes for bread. Germany, it will be observed, is, in normal times, well supplied with potatoes. They are largely cohol. This could easily be suspended, in part at least, in time of war, if necessity demanded it, unless, indeed, necessity also demanded increasing quantities of alcohol as a substitute for gasoline in the running of her numerous internal-combustion enwell supplied. Since Germany and Austria are the only countries which are likely to have any difficulty in getting supplies from the outside, peculiar interest attaches to their ability to support themselves. So far as starchy foods are concerned, it does not look as though they would suffer, unless, indeed, they should not be able to produc as much in time of war as in time of peace.

THE AEROPLANE IN WAR AND ITS FUTURE IN PEACE.

BY AUGUSTUS POST.

vertical. War, once a game of tenpina, has become a game of chess. In all the vast equipment of attack and defense there is only one real novelty, but it has changed everything. It is the aeroplane. Aircraft entered military strategy when Abraham Lincoln equipped the Rederal army with captive balloons that operated successfully before Petersburg and Richmond. The siege of Paris brought into service free balloons; railroad stations were turned into balloon factories, and sixty-five free balloons took out of the beleaguered city two and a half million letters, and pigeons to bring back replies. Gambetta escaped thus over the enemy's lines. It was during this very siege, no doubt, as he watched the drifting balloons, that Zeppelin conceived his idea of armored air cruisers in directed flight. Then, after a long wait, came the invention of the heavier-than-air machine, the aeroplane, and from that moment military experts telt that the character of war yas bound to change. How great the change we scarcely realize any more than we know how remarkable have been the battle exploits of aviators, nor is it likely that military authorities will be in any haste to enlighten us. This is not time for pointing out individual theroic deeds, nor for revealing resources held in reserve, and it is only as a non-combatant writes home to friends or newspapers that we have a glimpse of the fighting aeroplanes, no more known by the make or the famous pilot in control, distinguished only as "French," "German," "British," manned only by some one in uniform. This we read of feats that six months ago would have made the world sasp, now part of the day's work; a machine under fire of revolving cannon with 7000 feet range, a shell bursting so close to the wing that the concussion of air sends it down like a stone for hundreds of feet, righting itself, struggling like a sparrow in a storm, and finally speeding to safety; another darting from ambush in a cloud bank to strike and silip back again; a single aeroplane meeting a dirigible on a raid, shooting itself straight into the great mass like a living arrow and falling with it to wreck. Just how many aeroplanes are in actual service today no one will or can tell. What they are doing the world learns only from the changes they have already effected in the science and practice of war.

First, they have above like the whole road and deceive the sero scout.

But scout duty is by no means the most valuable of the seroplane's uses. It is the eye of the great gun. Hovering over the battle scene it locates the exact stot where the projectile should fall and directs artillery fire. In the day by exploding serial bombs, making a glare of color: at fileht by dropping upon the doomed shot a trail of fire, the seroplane marks for destruction places that long-range stillery might reach only after repeated trials. As an aeroplane complete costs only as much as one shot from a 14-inch gun, the economy becomes apparent.

from a 14-inch gun, the economy becomes apparent.

In actual offensive warfare, aircraft has played thus far a subordinate part. Its most picturesque feature is the aeroniane dart, grimly described as looking like a steel fountain pen, released in great numbers from the under side of a speeding aeroplane, arrows adapted to the bowstring of gravity, falling with such frightful force as to pierce a man from helmet to heel. Even the Zeopelin has taken but a small part in slaughter: its effect has been largely psychological, and the terror it engenders will soon fade unless reinforced by some terrific deed. Aircraft are feared ders will soon fade unless reinforced by some terrific deed. Aircraft are teared most before seen at all; after that the mind quickly adjusts itself to the new presence in the sky.

As the locomotive and the telegraph developed together, and the automobile and the telephone made each its own road, so seroniane and wireless have left the road altogether for the free air. Developing so wonderfully in these times of stress, is it inconceivable that when these times are over the continuing development of the aeropiane will lift the minds of men out of the oldest road of all, the blood-stained track of war? Its true purposes, now bent to destruction, will be released for civilization. No longer a fragile thine, but a power to overpass the flood, level the mountain or penetrate the lesert, it will take up the work of restoration, carry mail to isolated places, draw continent together to a single day's journey, until at last frontiers will fade beneath its flight across a world protected by law instead of war.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

ALWAYS BUSY. I called on James Augustus Jinks, a carpenter of fame, to make a pair of kitchen sinks and mend a quilting frame. "I cannot come right now," he said, "your little chores to do; I have so blamed much work shead the end is not in view. My time for weeks ahead is filled, I'm wanted everywhere; I have all sorts of shacks to build, and others to repair." A hundred workmen in the town are saying times are bad; they say they chase all chances down and cannot earn a sead. And if perchance one gets a job he works not with his might, but talks of how employers rob the poor man. left and right. If he is chopping down a tree his strokes are soft and elow; he fears to make a noise lest he won't hear the whistle blow. He does as little as he can throughout his working day, but he's an energetic man when calling for his pay. I don't be elieve that any gent who works with might and main, intent on earning every cent, has repason to commission. he doesn't seek work in despair, for work is seeking him. WALT MASON.

"About a year ago, pimples and blackheads broke out on my face and kept exiting worse and worse. At first my face was covered with blackheads and in a short time small red spots appeared here and there which increased very rapidly. My face became very sore and inflamed. The eruptions were very unsightly and disfigured me badly. At times they itched and burned so I had to scratch them and after that they got still worse.

"I used two different remedies but got no good results. I wrote for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Olntment and that seemed to give good results so I bought three cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Olntment. They stopped the burning at once, and in a short time I was entirely well, and all disfigurement was gone." (Signed) Gunard Friberg, November 5, '14.

Statking Shoes.

Of such importance have shoes become—what with the short skirts growing shorter at every step, and fuller, too, so that every time one moves one is apt to show even the highest edge of the highest top to any boot—that these one-time modest articles of apparel have arrogated to themselves unspeakable airs. To wear mode is to own oneself belonging to the vast army of the "Pshaw-who-cares." As a matter of fact, I have always contended that the shoes are to find a stronger of fact, I have always contended that the shoes are the final stronger one-time modest articles of apparel have arrogated to themselves unspeakable airs. FACULTY AX WRECKS STANFORD ATHLETICS.

Loss of Wylic, Urban, Wines, Braden and "Dutch" Henry Shatters the Famous Rugby Championship Varsity-Maple, Pitcher, Also Falls - Olmstead and Reineman of Crew are Lost.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ALO ALTO (Cal.) Jan. 5.-The dreaded faculty ax fell with a sicker thud at Stanford today, wrecking the famous Rugby team, maining the baseball nine and putting a large crimp in crew prospects. There is as nuch excitement around the campus as there was in Paris in the days of the Five football men, at least, have failen. They are Jim Wylie, the famous Australian breakaway; Joe Urban, the star wing; "Tiny" Wines, the front ranker; Joe Braden and "Dutch" Henry. The loss of these men, coupled with the five that go by graduation, wrecks the famous Stanford Rugby team, that tedly defeated California two years ago and swamped the Bears last

KICK HURTS WYLIE.

There may be some mix-up in Wylie's case. He is on probation officially, may be able to straighten the matter out. He is the famous Australian, but may be able to straighten the matter out. He is the famous Australian, who played such a game at Berkeley. He was badly injured in the big game by a kick in the head. This set him back considerably. That may give him a new lease on life.

Joe Urban is the star wing three-quarters. He was a wonderful ground gainer, kicker and defensive man. He was one of the mainstays of the famous backfield.

backfield.

Henry was a substitute front ranker last year. "Tiny" Wines would have been ineligible any way, as he played four years on the varsity.

Charlie Austin registered again and Otto Lachmund will be back from the East the tenth of the month. That brings some joy.

MAPLE GETS IT.

Ray Maple, the baseball pitcher, is on probation, which makes him ineligible to compete on the varsity nine. He is a clever pitcher for a collegian and was counted on as half of the fighting force in the California games. His loss is a serious blow to baseball.

Olmstead and Reineman, crew men, also had their heads chopped off. A rumor has come down from the "farm" that Hulsman, who sat in one of the seven seats last year, is on probation. Olmstead rowed in number two.

There is a rumor that Paul McKee, the 100 and 220 man is gone.

The official announcement at the registrar's office yesterday showed that 159 Stanford students had felt the ax. No announcement has or will be made of the names. It will be some time before the athletic fans will know the full number of the athleties who are lost.

But the blow is serious enough now to make gloom hang like a cloud over the return of the students for the second semester after the Christmas holidays.

Section 7 asks a preliminary infunction covering the various matters, while sections 8 and 9 ask for damages and relief for injuries done the Federal League by 'ts rivals. Sections 10 and 11 ask that writs of injunction and subpoenas be issued.

The text of the national agreement is appended to the bill of complaint.

PARTIES INVOLVED.

The suit was filed in the name of the Federal League of professional baseball clubs against the National League and its eight clubs, the American League and its eight clubs, the American League and its eight clubs, August Herrmann, B. B. Johnson and John K. Tener, members of the National Commission.

The printed complaint informs the court that "there are now in the United States about 10,000 professional baseball players, all of whom, with the exception of about 200 under contract to the Federal League, are under the domination and control of the national agreement and the rules and regulations of the National Commission."

The right of reservation claimed

The right of reservation claimed under the provisions of the national agreement is set forth together with the statement that a player under the national agreement always continues to be subject to the demands of the clubs subscribing to that agreement.

BENEFIT OF LEAGUES.

clubs subscribing to that agreement.

BENEFIT OF LEAGUES.

The national agreement for the government of professional baseball which was entered into between the National and American leagues and the National Association in 1913, the complainant declares, was not for the perpetuation of baseball as the national pastime, the protection of property rights without sacrificing the spirit of competition, and the promotion of the welfare of the ball players, as declared in the agreement, but was for the perpetuation of professional baseball in the hands of the contracting parties, that those within the combination might be safeguarded against any professional baseball competition. The petition further asserts that the purpose of the national agreement was that it might "so dominate and control players that the engagement of their services by any person or club outside the combination would be difficult, if not impossible."

The court is asked to restrain the defendants from seeking by injunction, by threats, by bonues or otherwise to prevent the players Fischer, Konetchy, Caldwell. Perritt, Wingo, O'Connor, Bedient, Austin, Allen, Berghammer, Bender, Plank and Marquard from performing their several contracts with the constituent members of the plaintiff.

The dismissal of the various court actions pending against George W. Johnson, Harold H. Chase, Armando Marsans and Lee Magee is asked in the petition.

CONSPIRACY.

A significant clause in the prayer of the bill reads:

"That the said defendant shall be decreed as forming part of a combination, conspiracy and menopoly in violation of the common taw, in contravention of the anti-trust and monopoly statutes, and in restraint of trade and commerce, and in derogation of the principal right of contract, and that said defendant be enjoined from further continuing or doing business as a part of or in connection with said combination, conspiracy and monopoly.

The bill of complaint asserts that more than $25,000 was received by the National Commission from the last world's series games, and that this, with other money accumulated by the commission, has been, and is being used with surpluses of the National League and the American League for the purpose of undertaking to oppress and injure or destroy the Federal League and its members.

Formal declaration of the formation of a conspiracy to injure or destroy the Federal League is alleged against the defendants.

BOARD ADVISED TO SUE.

If the members of the Board of Riducation want their salaries paid to the City Council was proposed to the Plance Committee of the City Council's Finance Committee of the City

There are numerous points involved this situation. The schools of Los sgeles used to be directly under consider the salaries of the city government. The arter provides that the salaries of ambers of the Board of Education all be paid by the city from the chool fund."
But in time there came an organition of the Los Angeles school discit, taking over all the city's school operty, as well as much territory taide the city. While the property is taken over, the district did not sum the payment of the bonded debtedness, and the city has had to intine to pay on this, despite the that the entire school district gets benefit.

Now the board will have to sue the city if it proposes to secure the payment of salaries from the municipal runds. There is no "school fund" in the 1914-15 budget.

vides that when an employee is in the municipal service for six months of longer he shall be entitled to one day's vacation for each month of service during the year. J. A. Rosesteel, of the City Tax Collector's office, worked for the city over six months, but took no vacation before he severed his connection with the department. He now sakes that the city pay him one week's salary as an equivalent for the vacation he didn't take.

The Finance Committee denied the demand. President Whiffen said the theory of vacations for municipal employees is that these periods of rest are for the betterment of service, through the recreation for body and mind, and that if Mr. Rosesteel didn't take his vacation, the city might make a counter-claim against him for not thus increasing his efficiency.

While there are several vacancies to fill in the municipal commissions, not all of them will be provided for immediately. This was indicated by

THE PROPERTY OF

Mayor Rose yesterday. Particularly will this be the case, it is apparent, in the Harbor Commission. President Woodman completed his appointed term months ago, but has continued in the service without reappointment. Commissioner Gilmer's term expired last Monday. He, they will continue in the service for the present without reappointment, according to present prognostication.

There are three vacancies to fill on the Board of Censor of Moving Pictures. The Mayor has selected a man for one of these positions, and will soon present his name to the City Council. He is endeavoring to secure two women for the other positions on this board.

The Mayor has intimated he will be in no hurry to name an appointee as successor to Vincent Morgan, who retires from the Police Commission, he having stated that he believes Commissioner Owen and himself are able to handle the board's work for the present.

CATTLE RUSTLERS?

TRIAL WILL DETERMINE. TRIAL WILL DETERMINE.

The trial of Joe Rivera before a jury in Judge Wellborn's court, charged with stealing cattle from Elias Munz, a Lancaster rancher, will settle the question whether or not Rivera and others are rustlers, as Deputy District Attorney Bell alleges. Many ranchers from the Antelope Valley are attending court as witnesses for and against the accused.
